The PRC is pleased to announce its annual Student Exhibition, featuring photographic work by students attending undergraduate and graduate degree and certificate-granting institutions in New England. This annual showcase of work by students enrolled in PRC Institutional Member schools demonstrates the breadth of Boston's photographic education community. Visitors will have the opportunity to view the creative talents of tomorrow on display today, and gain an appreciation for the diversity of young, contemporary photographic visions – and the remarkable range of academic programs supporting them – that surround the PRC.

The PRC's Institutional Membership is specially designed for schools and institutions that would like to fuel the creative process by taking advantage of the PRC's wide range of unique offerings. With this membership, the institutions' students have free, unlimited access to the PRC's gallery and library, in addition to free admission to all lectures and discounts on workshops. The PRC is thrilled to foster and maintain strong relationships with its participating Institutional Members. As in past years, each school was given the chance to select the specific pieces to be included in this exhibition in order to best represent its photography program.
